Fan has gym session interrupted by Kylie

KYLIE Minogue joked that she had performed her first-ever concert in a gym after interrupting a fan's workout in Crouch End.

The pop princess surprised superfan Adam Milner at the Factory Gym, in Hornsey Road, performing a short set complete with backing dancers and a glitter cannon.

The 45-year-old's shock set last Tuesday was part of a series of events organised by sponsor MasterCard before the BRIT Awards the following night.

Adam said: "I've been a fan of Kylie for as long as I remember. I have so much memorabilia from over the years and concerts at home that to have my own personal performance from Miss Kylie Minogue herself, I was just stunned."

Kylie added: "I've never performed in a gym before, so it was a crazy and exciting experience for me and my fan, Adam."

MEETING SUPPORTS MURDER ACCUSED

Jacobs to stand trial charged with 1985 death of PC Blakelock

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of people gathered in Tottenham on Sunday for the launch of a campaign to support a man due to stand trial for the murder of PC Keith Blakelock during the 1985 Broadwater Farm riot.

The event, Broadwater Farm Revisited, which was organised by anti-racist and civil rights charity The Monitoring Group and its local initiative Tottenham Rights, saw Winston Silcott and Mark Braithwaite, two of the three men who were wrongly convicted in 1987 of the murder, speak in public together for the first time.

The meeting was held to launch a campaign supporting Nicky Jacobs, 45, from Hackney, east London, the latest man to be charged with the murder and whose trial will start at the Old Bailey next week.

PC Blakelock, 40, was killed during the riot which erupted on October 6, 1985, the day after Broadwater Farm resident Cynthia Jarrett died from heart failure during a police raid on her home on the estate.

Two years later, Mr Silcott, Mr Braithwaite and Engin Raghip, who became known as the Tottenham Three, were convicted of murder based on their confessions alone.

The trio served four-and-a-half years in jail before their convictions were quashed by the Court of Appeal.

Speakers at the meeting on Sunday included Tottenham Rights organiser Stafford Scott, dub poet Linton Kwesi Johnson, chairman of Black Activists Rising Against The Cuts group Lee Jasper and Monitoring Group director Suresh Grover.

The three-hour event concluded with Mr Silcott and Mr Braithwaite recounting the events that led up to their arrest and trial and how they got through their time in prison.

Mr Silcott told the audience: "When I was in prison, all the letters and support from people I didn't even know, that really helped me get through it."

Mr Jacobs denies killing the policeman. His trial starts on Monday.

Pub shares drive meeting 'a success'

AROUND 100 people attended a meeting on Monday night asking people to buy shares and save a Tottenham pub.

The meeting was at Lancasterian Primary School, in Kings Road, Tottenham, called for support for the Antwerp Arms.

Activists have until March 26 to raise the money needed to buy the Church Road pub, otherwise it is likely to be turned into housing.

People were asked to pledge how many £50 shares they would be prepared to buy in the boozer, up to a maximum of £20,000. The results will be known by the next meeting, which will be at the pub at 6.30pm on Monday.

Chris Lane, who heads up campaign group the Antwerp Arms Association, said: "It was a real success with Tottenham people coming to pledge their support."

Teenager admits killing her niece

A TEENAGER, who killed her 18-month-old niece "to get the evil out of her", has been locked up indefinitely in a mental hospital.

Julia Nguyen, 19, of Hornsey Road, Holloway, admitted manslaughter when she appeared at the Old Bailey on Friday.

The court heard she had smothered Mya Nguyen while babysitting at her brother's home in Vale Terrace, Haringey, on August 17 last year.

Paramedics were able to restart the girl's heart but her condition deteriorated and she died three days later.

Nguyen, who was charged with murder, told Mya's parents the tot was evil and "she had been getting the evil out of her".

Nguyen pleaded guilty to manslaughter on the grounds of diminished responsibility after being diagnosed with schizo-affective disorder and was ordered to be detained indefinitely by Judge Richard Hone under the Mental Health Act.

Woman dies in fall

POLICE have named a Haringey woman who died after falling from a bridge on to the North Circular Road last week.

Elif Orman, 30, plunged from the footbridge over the A406, close to Walthamstow Avenue, in Walthamstow, on Monday afternoon.

A post-mortem revealed that Ms Orman died of severe head injuries. The Met Police said that her death is not being treated as suspicious and inquiries continue.

The westbound North Circular was closed for six hours between the Crooked Billet and Cooks Ferry roundabouts while emergency services including London's Air Ambulance attended the scene.

Call for Home Office help to support families in immigration limbo

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A LEADING councillor is calling on the government to support the cost of housing and education for families whose immigration status is unresolved.

Ayfer Orhan, cabinet member for children and young people, has tabled a motion for tonight's full Enfield Council meeting in which she raises concern over the growing cost of caring for families who have no recourse to public funds, often asylum seekers, who can be left in limbo for up to five years while the Home Office processes their claims.

While their status remains unresolved, the council is legally obliged to provide social care, housing and education. It is currently supporting 105 such families, with 164 children under the age of 16, at a cost of just over £1million during 2013/14.

Mrs Orhan told the Advertiser: "I am worried about these families, on the other hand we have got to reflect on the potential cost to the council as we have a responsibility for all children in the borough."

In her motion, Mrs Orhan is calling on council leader Doug Taylor to pressure the Home Office into resolving claims more speedily and for reimbursement of the costs incurred.

She added: "I want the Home Office to take this seriously. They have to take their responsibility in reaching a decision more quickly and when they have taken a decision they must act on it."

"At present no other agencies are taking over when asylum claims are rejected."

Pleading for help: Ayfer Orhan

The Home Office said that it already provides asylum seekers with accommodation and a weekly subsistence allowance of £36.62 per adult.

A spokesman said: "We have a duty under the law to provide support to destitute asylum seekers until their appeal is determined. If their application is refused, it is right to expect people to return home."

"The number of failed asylum seekers claiming and being granted asylum support has more than halved in the past three years, along with the cost to the taxpayer."

£6.9m savings lined up in budget vote

COUNCILLORS are set to approve a budget for 2014/15 at a full council meeting this evening.

The vote is likely to be preceded by a heated debate over the state of Enfield Council's coffers. The Conservatives are expected to criticise the Labour administration for not being financially prudent enough in the face of massive funding cuts, while Labour will say it has maintained services despite the cuts and is bringing new capital projects forward.

The draft budget and medium-term financial plan is marked by a two per cent cut in government funding, meaning that £6.9million of efficiency savings will start in April. Council tax will be frozen for the fourth year running and savings will have to be achieved by reducing office costs, merging teams and automating services. Finance chiefs estimate a further £60m savings will be needed in the following two budgets and there is a plan for a two per cent council tax increase between 2015 and 2017, raising about £2m.

The council's three-year £505m capital programme includes the primary school expansion programme, with capital spending on schools more than doubling to £64.3m in 2014/15, and more than £100m will be injected into social housing projects. The council has earmarked £51m for the Ponders End High Street regeneration and plans to bring forward the Meridian Water project, which will see 5,000 new homes built in Edmonton.

The meeting will also vote on proposals to set up a trading company for housing homeless families.

Rising numbers of ambulances have to queue outside A&E departments

Closure of Chase Farm emergency unit blamed for putting extra pressure on other hospitals

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

NEW figures have revealed a dramatic increase in the number of ambulances queueing outside emergency units in Edmonton and Barnet since the closure of Chase Farm's accident and emergency department.

The statistics, obtained from NHS England, show that the number of emergency vehicles waiting for longer than 30 minutes at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, and Barnet Hospital, in Wellhouse Lane, High Barnet, has rocketed compared to last year, when the A&E unit at Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, was still operational.

Between the first week of December and the end of last week the number of ambulances queueing for more than half an hour at North Mid averaged 88 a week, compared to 12 during the same period in 2012/13.

Since the closure of Chase Farm's A&E on December 9, a total of 1,008 ambulances have had to wait more than 30 minutes at North Mid.

Twelve months earlier the figure was only 137 during the same period.

At Barnet Hospital, where residents from the borough may now be taken by paramedics, the increase was lower, with an average of 24 ambulances forced to queue for more than 30 minutes – up from 16 last year.

But during the week ending February 2, 99 emergency vehicles queued outside Barnet's A&E, causing the hospital trust to declare an internal emergency and divert ambulances elsewhere that weekend.

Hospitals are required to treat 95 per cent of A&E patients within four hours – a target which North Mid has met in seven of the past 12

weeks, including the last four, despite the increase in ambulance handover times

But Barnet Hospital has missed the target in ten out of the past 12 weeks. Last week, only 86 per cent of patients were treated within four hours.

Alev Cazimoglu, chairwoman of Enfield Council's health and well-being scrutiny panel, said: "I believe a number of factors have created a perfect storm.

"There seems to be a lack of ambulances and they need to travel further and there is a lack of bed capacity at wards, which is leading to delays at A&E, as well as a lack of doctors and nurses.

"Contrary to what commissioners promised, since the closure of A&E at Chase Farm the situation has got worse, not better."

A spokesman for North Mid said: "We are now the busiest A&E in London in terms of ambulance arrivals and we are managing this increase in numbers and the flow through our emergency department well, achieving the 95 per cent four-hour waiting target so far this year.

"We continue to work with partners to ensure that our patients receive the best possible care."

The Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust failed to comment before we went to press.

Love: government must up efforts on dealing with TB

EDMONTON MP Andy Love has hailed the work of London's mobile tuberculosis unit after paying a visit to the service.

Mr Love met health workers at the NHS Find and Treat service last Monday on a visit to the homeless shelter at Beck House, in Upton Road, Edmonton.

The service targets homeless people and other vulnerable groups and has a mobile X-ray unit where people can undergo a scan and talk to volunteers about seeking diagnosis and treatment for the disease, caused by bacteria, which typically attacks the lungs and can kill if left untreated.

Last year, Public Health England figures revealed that levels of the disease in Edmonton are nearly triple the national average.

Meanwhile, Upper Edmonton and Edmonton Green wards have rates far higher than in many of the developing nations on the World Health Organisation's list of countries which account for the bulk of TB sufferers.

It is estimated that 41 people in every 100,000 in Edmonton are infected.

"It was really useful to be able to see first hand how the service is working to make an inroad into TB diagnosis and treatment," said Mr Love.

"However, it's a hugely stretched service and incidences of TB in parts of Edmonton are still alarmingly high.

"Unless the government really pushes for a coherent, cross-departmental policy on tuberculosis, we will be unable to achieve a reduction in infections."

The service, which is run by University College Hospital London, is funded by a

Praise: MP
Andy Love hailed the Find and Treat service

number of London clinical commissioning groups and has an annual budget of £772,070.

Dr Alistair Story, who co-ordinates the service, said: "Find and Treat is a highly effective and essential front-line service to control tuberculosis.

"London is the TB capital of western Europe with more cases annually than Holland, Belgium, Greece and Norway combined.

"It is an airborne disease and we share the same air. Without Find and Treat, cases of tuberculosis would remain undiagnosed in the community and infect others."

Last year, the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence evaluated the service and found it to be highly cost effective.

The body has recommended it is expanded to all major urban centres and that people making use of the service are also offered testing for other infections including hepatitis C, hepatitis B and HIV.

A BAND of protesters who have been blockading a controversial development site have suffered a "setback".

Protest leader Kim Coleman has been leading environmental campaigners in a blockade of the entrance of the site of the former Middlesex University campus, in Cat Hill, for almost three weeks.

The group were able to stop lorries from entering the site in Cockfosters where developer L&Q housing has started work on its 231-home development.

The protesters began the blockade because they believed that the company was breaching conditions of its planning licence by beginning demolition work during the hibernation period of the great crested newt and that, contrary to planning regulations, no newt-proof fence had been erected.

However, conservation group Natural England, which imposed the conditions on the developer, has now granted a full licence to the company – allowing it to legally demolish all but two of the buildings on the site.

Last week the Advertiser reported that the licensing body had not formally responded to the developer after a compliance meeting on February 14, but this week a spokesman from Natural England said: "Following a visit, we are happy that works can continue, subject to the terms of existing protected species licences."

While Ms Coleman admits that any blockade of the site is now illegal as lorries and demolition trucks are entitled to be on site, the veteran campaigner is determined to carry on the fight – despite what she calls "a little setback".

She said: "I am a bit disappointed with Natural England because they say that their purpose is to protect wildlife, but then they also say on their website they want to encourage development where possible. How can both things be your aim?"

"We do have other things planned, but at this stage I can't say any more than that," she added.

Islamaphobia row Tory awaits inquiry outcome

Facebook comments probe result delayed

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE results of an investigation by Conservative head office into the behaviour of a councillor accused of Islamaphobia are due to be revealed today.

Tory HQ launched an investigation into Chris Joannides, councillor for Grange ward, after he was selected to stand as a candidate in this year's council elections despite a raft of Islamaphobic images and comments that were posted on his Facebook page last year.

Although Mr Joannides had the whip withdrawn from him after an internal investigation by Enfield Council's Tory group, he was selected by the Enfield Southgate Conservative Association to stand in the elections in May.

The results of the investigation into his conduct and subsequent selection were due to be revealed on Monday afternoon – but a spokesman from the Tory party said that formal adjudication had been delayed until today.

"The report is still being considered by the board and the results of that are due to be made public on Wednesday," he added.

He was unable to say why the report had been delayed.

Some of the posts on the social media website, which appeared to criticise Turkish Cypriots, were written in Greek and yesterday the Foreign Office could not confirm reports that the President of Cyprus, Nicos Anastasiades, had written to Foreign Secretary William Hague about the matter.

When the Advertiser first revealed the litany of anti-Muslim comments on Mr Joannides' Facebook account, he responded by saying: "I am not, never have been and never will be Islamaphobic."

"I am from an ethnic minority myself and I fully appreciate the prejudices people can get exposed to."

"The comments I made were outspoken against Islamic fundamentalism and terrorism including the demonisation of women, something the whole world is concerned about in the light of terrorist attacks on the West since September 11."

"We suffered the same terrorist attacks in London on July 7, 2005, and some people from the area I represent died in that terrorist attack."

"These comments have been taken out of context and out of order and stitched together to make a new story and paint me as Islamaphobic. In addition, I spoke out against anti-semitism."

Mr Joannides is unable to comment while the investigation is ongoing.

Waiting: Chris Joannides discovers the outcome of the inquiry today

Mysterious remains found in graveyard

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE have still not revealed the origins of a small box of remains which were found in a churchyard on Monday afternoon.

Rumours began to circulate that two bodies had been discovered in the graveyard of St Andrew's Church, off Market Place, in Enfield Town, following police activity there.

Ray Archer, who passed the churchyard on his way to meet friends, told the Advertiser that he had seen two white sheets covering something on the ground, before police erected a forensic tent over the scene.

The 45-year-old, who was on a visit to London from his home in Lancashire, said: "I was walking down here when I saw two shapes under two white sheets.

"The area was all taped off, but the police officers at the scene couldn't tell me anything about it."

A police spokesman told the Advertiser that a small box of remains had been found in the grounds of the church.

"We await the outcome of tests to establish what the remains are," he added.

At the time of going to press, the police were unable to confirm whether the remains were from an animal or a human.

There was a strong presence of police community support officers in Enfield Town on Monday afternoon, but no one in the Kings Head pub, beside the churchyard in Market Place, or residents in nearby properties had been told why the area had been cordoned off.

Disputed football stand set for approval

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE erection of a 500-seater football stand on a strip of green belt in the north of the borough was due to be approved at a meeting of Enfield Council's planning committee last night.

The proposal by Premier League club Tottenham Hotspur to build a spectator stand on their training site, off Whitewebbs Lane, Enfield, was given the thumbs-up by council planning officers, who recommended that councillors should pass the application at their monthly meeting at the Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Enfield Town.

Although the report acknowledges that the site, just north of the Forty Hall estate, is on protected land, officers advise that "the very special circumstances necessary to outweigh the harm to the green belt has been demonstrated".

Officers note in the report that Spurs say they have to mainly build the stand for friends and families of academy players, if the club wants to keep its elite status under the Premier League's Elite Player Performance Plan rules.

However, the report also lists objections by residents and environmentalists at the prospect of an influx of spectators and even more players on to the semi-rural site.

It says the council has received two letters of complaint from residents near the state-of-the-art training centre, saying: "Employees of this company roar around the site in machinery while other employees kick balls around to the accompaniment of general bawling and shouting."

They add: "Balls are kicked with force against metal poles and the noise causes untold misery to local residents."

But the planning officers' report concludes that councillors should give the go-ahead to the proposal subject to conditions including suitable materials to be used for the stands.

Speaking to the Advertiser before leading a deputation to the committee, Jill Simpson, owner and manager of the Village Wholefood shop, in Forty Hill, said: "It beggars belief. In the report they say how important the green belt is but then they say that the building should go ahead - they're contradicting themselves.

"This is urban sprawl and the existence of the green belt is to stop that."

Leftside

Is the weather political? Even when, occasionally, it stops raining, you'd be wise to put on your wellies before shopping in Fore Street, Edmonton – especially if you are planning to use the pedestrian crossing near College Gardens.

Our flooded pavements, of course, tell you more about Enfield Council's attitude to Edmonton than they do about global warming.

Enfield has been lucky enough to observe this year's floods from a respectful distance.

But local place names such as Enfield Wash and Freezywater remind us that we, too, are living on a flood plain.

Edmonton was a beauty spot in the 18th century, precisely because it was near the waterside – in William Cowper's John Gilpin there is a reference to "the Wash of Edmonton so gay".

Up until last month it was the climate change deniers, including mainstream politicians and journalists as well as UKIP cranks, who did all the shouting.

However, the key question is not, why is the climate changing? Instead, it is, what are we going to do about it?

Can we hope for effective flood defence policies in a country where everything depends upon the profit motive?

"Money's no object," cries Prime Minister David Cameron. He forgets that, in super-capitalist Britain, money is the only object.

I'm sure that prospective sandbag millionaires are already placing their orders in good time for next winter's floods.

Present-day flood victims don't just lose their home, they lose their lifetime's investment, their provision for their children and their old age.

This is the downside of our property-owning democracy. Yes, the weather is political.

In support of car ban

I WAS very interested by your front-page article, "Motorists being driven out of Enfield" (Advertiser, February 19). I am an Enfield resident and worked in transport planning for nine years.

I understand shop owners are wary of any change, but this could be a great move for Enfield Town and increase business.

The whole area would be much more appealing to shoppers on foot and there is evidence that cyclists are more likely to stop and make impulse purchases than motorists.

In my opinion, the parking at the north end of the high street makes this area look scruffy and deters me from visiting these shops. The cars hide the shopfronts somewhat.

There is a great opportunity to link this end of the high street to the library and bring it to life.

How about changing the title of your article to "Plans to make Enfield Town a wonderful place to shop and enjoy yourself"?

Fortune favours the brave.

Christopher Achillea
Bush Hill Park

□ LAST week in a bold headline on the front page your paper announced that "Motorists may be driven out" (of

Looking back: Last week's article

Church Street, in Enfield Town).

With its clever play on words it was a striking way to make the point that if the plans set out in the council's Mini-Holland bid to increase cycling in the borough come to fruition, cars will be excluded from the town's premier shopping street.

But it was also disturbing because, whether intended or not, it came close to inviting drivers to feel aggrieved about cyclists being given preference.

How ironic when you consider that car culture has decimated cycling as a means of getting about, made even young adults apprehensive about riding a bike, led to parents actively preventing their children from cycling, killed off the days when even five-year-olds walked to school and destroyed the independence of children generally.

By building cities around cars rather than people, walkers and cyclists have become second-class citizens, poor air quality has become a major killer and obesity a national crisis – all excellent grounds for redressing the balance.

Hopefully, many of your readers will have read the subsequent article, but the constant claim that passing traffic and free parking is key to shopkeeper success is beginning to look a bit thin. Sound independent evidence is conspicuous by its absence.

Meanwhile, campaigning organisation Living Streets, in its report The Pedestrian Pound, has found that on average pedestrians spend more than drivers and that, in a large survey of case studies, improving the street environment for pedestrians does most to foster a healthy retail sector.

Finally, we can't ignore a rising urban population and a recent surge in car sales. Unless people get out of their cars – which in the main carry only the driver – and walk or cycle more often, this London of ours will grind to a halt.

Farcical game of snakes and ladders

POOR old Chase Farm Hospital – once top of the range, with its tennis courts, swimming pool, lovely little houses for staff, with green fields, flowers, views, space and the old clock tower, plus an extremely thriving friends association which freely helped enormously.

The first knife in the back was when it was sold down the river to share the huge rebuild debt for Barnet Hospital. Then a chunk of land was sold off for expensive homes for the wealthy – any profit obviously not helping Chase Farm.

Now it seems the Royal Free will cream off a chunk with another land sale, maybe even before it is in charge.

It is reported (Advertiser, February 12) that it has a £7million surplus while Barnet was given £23m to help its accident and emergency department prepare for the loss of facilities at Chase Farm, whose deficit was £16m.

It all seems like a farcical game of snakes and ladders, except it is a huge loss of easily accessible and familiar services for a wide area.

Let's hope this doesn't lead to the disappearance of the hospital altogether – to be replaced by an enormous, gated housing development.

FROM THE WEB

Taking a stand: Spurs' training ground, off Whitewebbs Lane

Spurs plan 500-seater stand on green belt land

FIVE hundred seats would be a very small stand – it is unlikely to be as tall as Forty Hall or Myddelton House.

Does Ms O'Ware not contradict herself in asking Spurs (not Enfield Council) to extend a road which would on its own encourage traffic?

Sounds a bit like a nimby...

Tommy Harmer, London

THE fact José O'Ware thinks they could build the whole stadium there is crazy – building a 50,000-seater stadium in an area with next to no transport links.

A 500-people stand is very small.

I was at the training ground last Saturday and thought if anything it made the area look nicer.

Harry, Enfield

LAUGH all you want, but this is how the countryside gets eroded, a bit at a time. Yes, it is "just" a training ground now. Add a 500-seat stand, wait a few years and add another. Then use an adjacent field to provide more car parking. Then build another pitch... and in a generation you've lost another chunk of Enfield's countryside, which you will never get back.

Nick, Enfield

Landlords opposed to £575 licensing scheme

THIS is an attempted money-making scheme from Enfield Council. No other council wants to charge a licence fee. At most, a £100 one-off licence for a landlord could be sought. This would signal increased rents and have a dramatic impact on social housing.

Paul, London

Man hit by train at Palmers Green

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MAN needed hospital treatment for a serious leg injury after being hit by a train at Palmers Green railway station on Sunday evening.

British Transport Police and the London Ambulance Service were called to the station in Aldermans Hill just before 6pm after reports that a man, who police said is in his 20s, was trapped under a train. He was taken to the Royal London Hospital, in Whitechapel, east London, for treatment.

The incident is not being treated as suspicious and a British Transport Police spokesman said: "Officers are working to establish the full circumstances of the incident, including how the man came to be on the tracks."

Three jailed for roles in drug-dealing network

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

THREE men have been jailed for their part in a cocaine and money laundering ring.

Nertil Curi, 28, of Ecclesbourne Close, Palmers Green, and Gentjan Mataj, 24, and Brikel Mataj, 29, both of Linkside Gardens, Enfield, who were members of what police described as a "highly sophisticated crime network", were jailed at Maidstone Crown Court, in Kent, on Friday, for conspiracy to supply cocaine and money laundering.

Curi was jailed for eight years and three months for conspiracy to supply cocaine and 15 months for money laundering, with the sentences to run concurrently.

Gentjan Mataj was sentenced to seven years behind bars and Brikel Mataj was jailed for 18 months for the same drug charge and both were handed a 15-month jail sentence for money laundering. Their sentences will also run concurrently.

All three men had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing.

Curi and Gentjan Mataj were arrested in east London on July 22, 2013, after police officers had stopped them in a car in Plaistow. They discovered seven kilograms of cocaine with a street value of £1.6million concealed in a sophisticated hidden compartment which could be accessed by a switch in the arm rest in the back passenger seat.

Later the same day officers raided an address in Linkside Gardens and found a hydraulic cocaine press, a money counting machine and cash. Brikel Mataj was in the property at the time and was arrested.

Officers also found £15,980 in bank notes and cannabis with a street value of £9,000 hidden in a nearby vehicle.

Further searches at Curi's home address unearthed £1,435 in euro notes and £43,000 in cash, while two packets of cocaine with a street value of £200,000 were found at an address in Canning Town, east London.

Detective Inspector Steve Miles, from the Met's Serious and Organised Crime Command, said: "There is no doubt that we uncovered a highly sophisticated crime network involved in the distribution of drugs and money laundering on a large scale.

"This investigation prevented £1.6m worth of harmful class A drugs making it on to the streets of London and four people will now face a long time behind bars."

Attention: DENTURE WEARERS Attention: DENTURE REPAIRS

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!!

If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN.

Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist. The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements. A more direct, rapid and personalised service, that can be delivered to you in the comfort of your own home or at my day clinic in Edmonton.

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Back on his bike after heart attack

Back in training: Cem Hilmi, watched by his nine-year-old daughter Leyla

By Ruth

McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A TRIATHLETE in peak physical condition with a rigorous training schedule is not someone you would expect to be floored by heart disease.

But Cem Hilmi, of Hedge Lane, Palmers Green, was brought up short three years ago when he suffered a serious heart attack.

At the time the father-of-one, who runs a recruitment consultancy in Bush Hill Park, was training for the Great North Run and the London Triathlon – but after cancelling a training session because he was feeling unwell he collapsed in his home and had to be rushed to Chase Farm Hospital for an operation.

“When I came home, I felt really down,” said Cem, 39, admitting that his mood grew darker as he was facing a lifetime of medication.

But while Cem was feeling low, his wife found out about the dedicated heart rehabilitation centre run at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton.

Cem started on the rehab programme and took his recovery “step by step”, ensuring he had weekly sessions with the resident psychologist.

Within six weeks he had the confidence to start running again by himself and six months after his operation he ran the Great North Run half marathon.

“I had better times than before my operation,” he said.

Since then he has gone from strength to strength. Last year he cycled the 54-mile London-Brighton bike challenge to raise money for the British Heart Foundation.

This year he is looking forward to the London-to-Brighton bike ride in June followed by the London Triathlon in August for the charity.

“I’ve treated my training just like my rehab,” he added. “I take everything step by step, increasing incrementally each time.”

To support Cem and the British Heart Foundation, search for his name on www.justgiving.com

South Asian families to get dementia help

Sessions will be tailored culturally

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A TRAINING programme aimed at providing culturally specific dementia support for south Asian residents suffering from the condition is starting next week.

As part of its Information Programme for South Asian Families, the Alzheimer's Society in Enfield is piloting four weekly training sessions for families, carers and residents at Trinity at Bowes Church, in Palmerston Road, Palmers Green, starting next Wednesday.

The new programme, funded by Lloyds Banking Group's Live Well Campaign, aims to provide culturally-tailored knowledge, skills and understanding to support people with the condition.

All sessions will be attended by Urdu and Hindi interpreters.

Peter Todd, operations manager at the Alzheimer's Society for North West London, said: "A diagnosis of dementia can be a scary and confusing experience, yet cultural factors such as language and families' close-knit bonds can make it harder for south Asian families to reach out to get information and advice.

"Many people don't know there is support available to them, let alone how to access it.

"This programme provides much-needed guidance and help towards understanding dementia and knowing how to reach for support at the right time."

Research by the society has found that people from black and Asian communities are more likely to develop early onset dementia and have a higher prevalence of vascular dementia than their white British counterparts.

The organisation has also found that these groups also tend to seek access to dementia services later, which can have a negative impact on families as they may have struggled for some time without support.

People interested in attending the sessions should contact Margaret Dempsey at the Alzheimer's Society on 020 8732 6750.

Metal theft crackdown launched

By Koos Couvee

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS and businesses are being urged to do everything they can to foil metal thieves by properly safeguarding valuable tools and other metalware.

Enfield Council has launched an awareness campaign because a significant rise in the value of metal means that items such as metal ladders and children's bicycles are becoming highly desirable for thieves.

The council spent more than £300,000 in the past year replacing metal stolen from roads, while a further £25,000 has gone on replacing metal fittings stolen from parks since 2010.

The local authority is urging people to mark and register valuable metal property so stolen items can be returned if they are recovered by police.

People are advised to engrave their name on ladders, tools and large pieces of equipment such as cement mixers, keep a photographic record of them and padlock items if they are left unattended.

The council is also advising residents to paint tools in a bright colour and not to leave metal items in front gardens.

Residents are further warned to be wary of thieves posing as council or utility workers and not to buy cheap tools in the street from people they don't know.

Chris Bond, cabinet member for environment, told the Advertiser: "The effects of metal theft are far-reaching and a vast number of people will have been affected by it.

"Residents and commuters are inconvenienced by the theft of metal from railway tracks and fly-tipping often happens when metal thieves dump unwanted bits of items they have stolen.

"We want to help catch the idiots responsible for committing metal theft and also encourage residents to take care of their metal goods.

"You wouldn't leave a brand-new mobile phone in your front garden, but many people would not think twice about leaving an expensive metal ladder lying there.

"But that's an open invitation to thieves and an opportunity they are unlikely to pass up on."

As well as issuing advice and guidance to residents, the council has been working with Enfield Police to reduce metal theft through roadside stop and search checks on waste carriers and by carrying out unannounced inspections on business premises suspected of handling stolen metal.

For more information on how to register your metal goods, visit www.immobilise.com, the national property register, which helps police to identify the owners of lost and stolen property.

'Help us to catch these idiots': Councillor Chris Bond

Green shoots for veg box scheme

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

SEASONAL produce freshly plucked from the earth just a few miles from home will soon be available to the veg lovers of Palmers Green.

After Enfield residents wholeheartedly embraced the Forty Hall Veg Box scheme, farm manager Kate McGeevor has announced that from March 19 subscribers will be able to pick up their bag of fresh veggie from Baskervilles Tea Shop, in Aldermans Hill.

The project was started before Christmas by Forty Hall Farm as a way to get people buying the organic seasonal vegetables straight from the grounds of the farm in Forty Hill, Enfield.

When the project was launched, subscribers could only pick up produce from locations close to Forty Hall. Now the scheme is slowly spreading through the borough.

Baskervilles Tea Shop is the latest place to pick up either a small, medium or large bag of freshly picked, local, seasonal vegetables.

Kate is modest about the scheme's success and admits the middle of winter can be quite a tricky time to source exciting seasonal produce.

"The bags will be filled with produce from local farms and now it means that people keen to support local producers don't have to travel right to the north of the borough to pick up their veg," she told the Advertiser.

Farm manager:
Kate McGeevor

Anyone wishing to sign up to the scheme can register at www.enfieldveg.co.uk

The passage of spring at the farm will not only be marked by the first bags of seasonal vegetables. It will also include a one-day course to teach people the ancient art of lambing.

It will take place at the farm on Saturday, March 15, and Kate says it is ideal for anyone thinking of studying veterinary medicine – or even for those who want to set up their own smallholding in the style of Tom and Barbara in 1970s' sitcom The Good Life.

"We have run lambing days at the farm before, but this is a chance to spend a whole day learning and helping with sheep in labour – learning to see when a sheep is about to give birth and being able to spot if the labour is difficult," Kate added.

Places on the course are £50 per person, including an organic lunch and refreshments. There is a maximum of ten places.

Places can be booked at www.fortyhallfarm.org.uk/news/an-introduction-to-lambing.html

Couple's African flavours spice up TV show

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A HUSBAND and wife culinary team helped to spice up a celebrity chef's daytime TV show.

James "Bim" and Nicola Adedeji started producing their home-made range of African-inspired sauces and condiments three years ago.

And as the business goes from strength to strength, with stockists as far afield as America and the United Arab Emirates, they were courted by BBC bosses to appear on James Martin's Home Comforts show on Monday.

While the couple are still a two-man band, coming up with their products in the kitchen of their home in Green Lanes, Palmers Green, their reputation on the artisan food circuit has grown as they rack up awards and orders continue to pile up.

And after a fan of their food recommended them to BBC researchers, they were chosen to demonstrate what local producers were capable of on the programme.

The couple were filmed making one of their most complex recipes, African Baobab Chilli Jam – making sure they had enough to pass on to Mr Martin afterwards.

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Do us a flavour: James and Nicola Adedeji appeared on television earlier this week

Acknowledging that being contacted by a TV show is a sign of how far the family firm, Bim's
Kitchen, has come in three years, James said:
"We are a lot bigger now than when we started out. We have stockists all over the UK, as well as in America, France and the UAE, and our sales have grown so much."

But he admits that they are still a kitchen sink operation and need a cash boost if they are to properly scale the dizzying heights of getting their products on supermarket shelves.

"An investor would be a godsend," he explained, adding that despite their growing popularity internationally they are still unable to convince banks to lend them the necessary funds to grow their business.

"But we are just going to keep going as we are – doing what we do best – trying to get people interested in African food," he added.

After recording the couple slave over their hot stove, the film crew moved on to film customers tasting chilli jam at Baskervilles Tea Shop, in Aldermans Hill, Palmers Green, one of the first places to stock the African-themed products.

Escape the daily grind by stopping for Coffee

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

GRAB a cup of coffee and immerse yourself in the latest comedy to take over the Dugdale Centre this week.

Millfield's pantomime writer Marc Day has been percolating Coffee Shop Monologues for 18 months before finally serving it up to the tables of the cafe at the venue in London Road, Enfield Town.

It follows five characters through a series of interlinking monologues and Marc says it was not written intentionally about class, but includes gay barista Ken, working-class girl from up north Rita, Sian, who is "as extreme as Hyacinth Bucket", Penny, who is trying to keep everyone happy, and mystery character Steven.

"I was keen to do something more adult and more challenging as a writer," said Marc, on his final day of rehearsals.

"At the time I was sitting in the cafe reading something about a theatre company doing drama in a location somewhere and I thought it would be nice to do something here because this area is quite big anyway."

The audience will sit among the coffee shop's tables and sofas and will receive a complimentary cuppa with their ticket.

The borough of Enfield is full of well-

Cup of cheer: Nikki Wright (Rita), Matthew Walker (Steven), Alex Scott Fairley (Ken), Natalie Gardner (Penny) and Sally Samad (Sian) will be appearing in Coffee Shop Monologues at the Dugdale Centre this week

known coffee shops, but Marc says he has kept the location general.

He said that rehearsals had been a laugh and the biggest challenge had been making it "tight - in a witty way".

"And you really do need to hear it with actors to work out any gaps," he added.

"I had a few nights last week where I'd go home and write a few extra pieces to insert. You get a gut feeling as you watch it whether that feels right or wrong."

It is hoped that the production will introduce more people to the Dugdale's cafe, which is open to the public throughout the day.

"We are starting to head towards a relaunch of the cafe and we are trying to get people into the space who have never been here before," added Marc.

Coffee Shop Monologues is showing tonight and tomorrow at 7.30pm. Tickets cost £13 and are available from the box office on 020 8807 6680 or at www.dugdalecentre.co.uk

SMART THINKING LEADS TO SMART RENTING (& SMART MONEY)

Maximize your rental income potential with smart thinking from the Smart Housing Group

With yields of up to 6% and more in some parts of London, the rental market can offer a profitable return on your money and here's how to enjoy the peace of mind of a hassle-free landlord experience. It's this peace of mind that is offered by the Smart Housing Group.

Many landlords now coming into the market lack experience or have many other demands on their time. Property renting can be profitable, but it can also be a minefield.

The problems of bad tenants defaulting on the rent or damaging the property can often deter a prospective landlord. There is also the risk that some tenants might perhaps become litigious if rental properties are not compliant or not maintained to the required standards.

These issues and many others are resolved when Smart Housing Group manages your rental property. The Smart Housing Group rental service offers:

- ▶ A waiting list of potential tenants
- ▶ Guaranteed rent throughout the lease period
- ▶ Regular property inspections and in-house maintenance.
- ▶ Managed tenancies

All the landlord needs to do is enjoy the return on their investment. That's what we call smart thinking!
For more information, please call Lakis, Christos or Robin at Smart Housing Group on

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified Advertisers' offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must make clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.
- Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No. centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.
- Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.
- Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.
Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Trade Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.
Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

SOLDADO BACKED TO START SCORING

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

JAN VERTONGHEN has backed misfiring striker Roberto Soldado to silence his critics and come good in the remainder of the season.

The Spanish international, who has struggled since joining Tottenham Hotspur from Valencia for £26million last summer, has endured another difficult week – missing a gilt-edged opportunity during Thursday's 1-0 defeat at Dnipro in the Europa League before failing to take advantage of two good chances after coming on as a substitute when Spurs lost by an identical scoreline at Norwich in the Premier League on Sunday.

Soldado has now only scored once in his last 11 appearances, but defender Vertonghen firmly believes that it is only a matter of time until his team-mate starts to find the net on a regular basis.

"In training he scores from everywhere," Vertonghen said. "At some time he is going to score one and he won't stop scoring. I hope that day is coming soon."

"He's a very smart guy and there is nobody who wants to score more than him. It's his life. He is practising after training all the time. He will come back."

"He is determined to prove himself. He is a very determined person and he did well when he played up front with Emmanuel Adebayor. He just needs a few more games."

Meanwhile, head coach Tim Sherwood admits that it will be tough for Tottenham to secure the top four finish needed to qualify for the Champions League following their defeat at Norwich.

The result has left them six points adrift of fourth-placed Liverpool with games running out, and Sherwood is well aware that they now have little margin for error.

"The gap looks big, it's a real blow to us," he said. "It's the first major setback I've had and we're going to need to be spirited to show we can bounce back."

"We just have to concentrate on winning our games. We can't rely on other people to lose all their games and us qualify for the Champions

Struggling striker: Roberto Soldado has scored once in his last 11 appearances

League, because that's not going to happen.

"I thought we were poor in the first half. We saw an improvement after half-time, but they got a goal that put the wind in their sails. We created clear-cut chances after that, but if you don't score you don't win football matches.

"The second half was more like what we know we can do, but we are bitterly disappointed. We have to tighten up our entire performance. We've got two home games where we have to bounce back – we have to see if we have the character to do that."

Sherwood looks for Spurs to show character

TIM SHERWOOD has called for his Tottenham Hotspur side to show character as they look to bounce back from a disappointing week.

Spurs have suffered 1-0 defeats at both Dnipro in the Europa League and Norwich in the Premier League in the past week to deal a blow to their prospects in both competitions.

The side have an immediate opportunity to put the disappointing results behind them as they host Dnipro in the second leg of their Europa League tie tomorrow before entertaining relegation-threatened Cardiff City in the league on Sunday, and head coach Sherwood is hoping that they will respond in a positive fashion.

"Good players and good teams come back when they're down, and that's what we've got to do straight away," Sherwood said. "We certainly need to have character now to play in front of our home fans after the disappointment of losing to a team around the bottom of the league."

"That happens, what can you do? You can't crawl into a corner and hide. You have to confront it and have a go."

Goalkeeper Hugo Lloris is equally adamant that Spurs have to ensure that they bounce back in the coming week.

"We have to show more," he said. "We need to learn from the Norwich game and on Thursday we have a big match in the Europa League and then next weekend, Cardiff. It is important to have a good response."

"When you have ambition you have to prove it every day, every training session and every time in the games. We have to keep working, keep going and hope we have a good response in both matches."

Pelo signs to bolster Skolars' squad

FORMER Toulouse Olympic and Avignon rugby league player Tely Pelo has joined the London Skolars to boost their squad ahead of their opening match in the Kingstone Press Championship One this weekend.

The versatile Pelo, who has played on the wing, at prop and in the second row, signed for Toulouse in 2008 and – after a season playing in the reserves – became an ever-present in the first team playing in the British Championship for two years.

The 29-year-old moved to Avignon in 2011 and became an equally important member of the side there, helping them to win the prestigious Lord Derby Cup last year.

Skolars' head coach Joe Mbu said: "While a lot of the focus has been on some of the players who departed the club in the close season, such as Dylan Skee and James Anthony, I have been working hard to make sure we have quality players coming into the club who can make a real impact.

"There was considerable interest from a number of clubs in acquiring Tely's services, so I am delighted that he has decided that the next phase of his career will be spent with Skolars."

"I am looking forward to working with Tely, and believe that he has all the attributes to be a huge success over here."

The Skolars begin their quest for glory in the league with a trip to Oxford on Sunday.
